Introduction:

If fire breaks out in your workplace, the top priority is to evacuate everyone out from the premises as instantly, carefully and safely as possible. However, the sound of fire alarm due to emergency response can cause chaos, unknown feelings and reactions that are stressful and all sense of cognitive, reasonable action as in evacuation procedures and methods in fire-fighting and fire protection may be forgotten. Fire safety experts believe that training, knowledge and practical experience can cause behavior to be modified, preparing employees for how to deal with fire, leading to best chance of a safe and methodical evacuation of lives. Therefore, fire safety training courses have been developed to equip your employees, especially the "First Responders", with necessary knowledge, technical ability and practical know-how should a fire ever occur.
